about me

I have worked in schools and colleges for over 15 years, working with students of all ages. I have four children and eight grandchildren. I am an author and have penned over 31 novels. I have a passion for working with students who are struggling in mainstream school and believe listening to their voice is paramount when they are in education.

I'm looking forward to meeting and working with my new pupils at Safe Start School

my favorites

I love being creative and going to the gym. I play squash and golf too. I have two dogs and I love taking them on walks. I like baking and love all kinds of music. I like to travel and learn about other cultures, and I love tasting new food. I love going to the theatre and watching new shows in the West End.
